

Supplementary Figure S1—Right lateral radiographic image of the neck of an anesthetized 6-year-old 17.5-kg (38.5-lb) castrated male Labrador Retriever evaluated because of a 2-month history of progressive coughing and respiratory distress. At the level of the thoracic inlet, there is a smoothly margined, broad-based, soft tissue opacity (white arrow) that silhouettes with the dorsal margin of the trachea and extends into the tracheal lumen.
