Supplementary Figures S5-S7—Culicoides hypersensitivity in a ewe (Courtesy of Kathryn A Whitaker, APHA). Postmortem images of a Zwarble ewe with severe chronic Culicoides hypersensitivity associated with marked thickening and alopecia of the skin on the ventral abdomen and lateral aspect of the left elbow. On the head there was marked generalised alopecia and crusting which extended to the pinnae.